OUR DESIGN PORTFOLIO

That's a wrap!

DTS houses 4 high speed plastic wrap lines that can insert and insert multiple items.

There are 3 kinds of plastic to choose from poly wrap, crispy wrap and biodegradable wrap.

To find out more about how DTS can help your business please call us on 9890 9777.

PLASTIC WRAPS

All of our plastic wraps meet the updated Australia Post material specifications listed below.

The material specifications for the plastic wrap are:

ATTRIBUTE	SPECIFICATION
Strong enough to avoid tearing	Minimum thickness of the polymer film is 25 microns
Anti-static properties to avoid articles sticking together	Static charge < 2.0kV
A co-efficient of friction at a level to allow the articles to pass through the machine pick off mechanism	Coefficient of friction 0.2-0.5 (medium slip)
Not too glossy (reflects too much light) or hazy to prevent mechanical reading of the address	Gloss value must be 150 gloss units or less when measured at 60 degrees. Maximum haze level is 75 per cent

CRISPY WRAP

This is a premium product that perfectly showcases your beautifully printed publication in a clear, crispy and incredibly strong plastic wrap.

There is the added advantage of being able to perforate along the length of the article to make opening a breeze.

The choice of many high-end brands, our crispy plastic certainly is worth getting all wrapped up in.

THEY SAY YOU CAN'T CATER FOR ALL OF THE PEOPLE ALL OF THE TIME. BUT CAN YOU?

Different people like different things and it's impossible to have crystal clear insight into every single person you market to.

By using the information you do have access to, it is possible to appeal to each individual on a more personal level.

Vegemite, olives, sushi, abstract art, NRL, synchronised swimming, theatre productions. People either love or hate them. Other people's taste and interests can be mystifying but there's no better way to get someone's attention than by demonstrating you understand what they like to buy, where they live, who they provide for, and the issues that concern them.

The more personally relevant the marketing communication is to an individual, the more likely it is to be received as helpful, interesting and educational. An ADMA Consumer Insights Study showed that 89 out of every 100 people open addressed direct mail and just under half (48%) respond when they know the company.

Surprisingly, another ADMA's report, The State of Content Marketing, found that only 25 percent of Australian marketers personalise content to individuals.

In this digital age, personalisation is expected. The more relevant the content, the higher the engagement, and the greater the likelihood that such content will change customer behaviour.

It all comes down to accumulating customer data and building profiles – beyond their names and addresses, what they have bought in the past and when. Incorporating variable information into mail outs is a simple but highly effective practice and it allows you to connect with people on a more personal level with customised messages that are all about you!

Early last year Australia Post relaxed the Print Post rules allowing advertisers, marketers and publishers the opportunity for next level personalisation in their publications.

Think special offers acknowledging a birthday? Magazine editorial highlighting advertising and articles of particular interest? Personalised promotional codes to reward customers and measure responses?

All these options and more are accessible when delivering your publication with Print Post. To find out more, please contact us on 9890 9777.

Here are just four ways you can personalise your Print Post mailings.

Include a separate personalised letter from the sender of the publication to promote the publication's subject and content, including offers from advertisers.

Personalisation on the flysheet. Wishing your customer a happy birthday, for example, or thanking them for a previous order recognises and reinforces the value in your pre-existing relationship.

Vary the cover of the same publication issue between different recipients. Using your audience profiles, you can customise variable elements like headlines and imagery.

Personalise editorial and content within the publication itself. Use customer data to draw your readers' attention to the articles and advertisements that will interest them most.
